Mapping Soils—The Latest Drug sumption from Bird Pets—Ant Perception—A Remarkable Heat Gover-

Soil surveys were begun in the United States in 1899, and by June 30, 1906, according to J. A. Bonsteel, an aggregate of 113,639 square miles, or 75,959,865 acres, had been mapped in 43 states and four territories, this being about one twenty-fifth of the whole country and a little less than one tenth of the land actually in farms. The field work of survey consist in determining the texture, structure, quantity and distribution of organic matter, internal natural drainage and topographic relief of the soils. Closely similar areas are classified in the same soil type, several types differing only in texture or degree of coarseness or fineness from a series, and several series of similar origin and climatic and other conditions constitute a province. At present 13 great soil provinces, 58 soil series, and 461 soil types have been recognized. The Norfolk sand, a warm, porous soil adapted to truck crops, has been mapped over 2600 square miles in 34 areas of 14 Eastern States; and the Marshall silt loam, nearly all specially suitable for corn, has been mapped over 6123 square miles of 22 areas in 9 States—a great area being still unmapped.

A new intoxication menacing society has been brought to notice through Dr. McKendrick of the University of Glasgow. Carbon tetrachloride, a colorless, non-inflammable liquid differing but slightly from chloroform in composition and having similar anaesthetic effect, is a safe clothes-cleaning material, and of late has been used as a "dry shampoo." Its danger has been made known by a lady who struggled to keep consciousness under the shampoo. The hairdresser affirmed that the effects are liked, and a carbon tetrachloride habit seems to be developing.

An estimate of March and November bird-food near Washington has shown 1,216,880 animal objects, and 2,107, 810 seeds per acre in forest, and 13, 654,710 animals and 35,322,745 seed per acre in meadows.

One of the strangest as well as most costly articles of commerce is snake-venom, for which there is a growing demand in medicine and other branches of science. The supply comes from Australia, and a recent Sydney quotation placed the market price at 20 to 25 shillings per grain, or about $30,000 per pound Troy, no attempt seeming to have been made hitherto to distinguish between the poison of snakes whose bite is usually fatal and that from reptiles that seldom kill. Dr. Tidewell, of the New South Wales Health Department, states that the venoms are now being classified. Laboratory experiments place the tiger-snake venom first, as it is 16 times as deadly as that of the black snake and four times as powerful as that from the brown snake or the death-adder. In average yield at a bite, the deathadder supplies three times as much as the tiger snake and 17 times as much as the brown snake. So far the snakes have been mostly captured by hand, to avoid loss of poison, and, at even greater personal risk, have been held in the hand while being eviscerated and made to bite through a rubber band, ejecting upon a glass plate the venom from the two poison-fangs in the upper jaw. Each snake has supplied the material from one bite, averaging about a grain. A new discovery is that the supply in the fangs is renewed, and in the future snakes farmers may "milk" the poison from well kept reptiles every two days for an indefinite period.

A serious risk of tuberculosis from pet birds is alluded by Dr. Tucker Wise of Moutreux, who records 33 cases of apparent infection, with other evidence from eminent physicians. The life of caged birds like canaries, pigeons and parrots—especially favors tuberculous disease, and the fluttering of their wings and the action of flies readily convey infection to the family. As 400,000 cagey birds are sold in England yearly, the influence upon public health is believed to be important.

Ants have been proven so sensitive to temperature, in late experiments of O. C. Silverlock, that they detected a change of a thirtieth of a degree centigrade. He thinks ultra-violet rays, which they avoid, appear to them as a color unknown to human beings.
The "Sylphon Regitherm" of W. M.
Fulton, of Knoxville, Tenn., is a small kind of heat motor, which expands and collapses through several inches, and is claimed to control the heat from a furnace more effectively than any electric thermostat, while lacking the troublesome details of the latter. The apparatus takes the form of a vessel of flexible metal, with sides deeply folded, like those of a bellows, it is hermetically sealed, and contains a small quantity of volatile liquid, the vapor of which, in expanding and contracting, gives a change in pressure of half a pound per square inch for every degree of temperature. As the end wall of the vessel has an area of 30 square inches, each degree of variation in the atmosphere changes the internal pressure 15 pounds. This pressure of one degree of heat lengthens the vessel half an inch, and moves the controlling dampers of the heater four inches. The regulator can be set to operate at any temperature between 55 deg. and 80 deg. F.

The ears of birds are being specially studied by W. P. Pyecraft, at the South Kensington Museum, as a result of the curious discovery of Charles Whympar, the British artist.
The ears usually behind the eye, but the snipe has been known to have the opening just beneath the eye, and now it is found that the woodcock has the aperture below and in front of the eye. It is further noted that the opening on one side of the head is considerably larger than that on the other side, slightly different in shape, and somewhat farther forward.
The snow load of roofs, which has been lately investigated by S. de Prerort of Neuenburg, Switzerland, proves to be a very dense mass after repeated falls, followed by thawing and freezing. In several instances the weight was 36 to 38 pounds per square foot and the thickness 21 to 32 inches—thus giving a load of 70 to 100 pounds per square foot, which is three or four times the usual calculation.

Here is something every woman who has daughters likely to marry should do: Save rose leaves. A woman writes to the October number of Harper's Bazaar that she so disliked the idea of having rice thrown at a wedding that she saved rose leaves, and paid a florist for saving them for her. Then, when her daughter grew up and was married, the woman divided all her rose leaves, putting them into individual bags, and presented each guest at the wedding with a bag of rose leaves, which were flung at the bride and groom, instead of rice. How sweet.

GLOBE SIGHTS.

A one-sided fight never gets very ferce.
Everybody seems to need somebody to abuse.

Repentance often amount to this:
impudence.
It is not mainly for a woman to be unwomanly.

A lucky man is a man who saves what he earns.
No man's credit is so good that the cash is not better.

No man is as wretched as he imagines himself to be.
It is always a temptation to mock anyone you dislike.

No man has all the wisdom in the world; everyone has some.
How ugly a flower looks when it is going to seed!

No man likes to have the woman he loves watch him eat.
A judgment could be gotten against almost anyone of us for negligence.

You can't realize how little money there is in a $5 bill until you break it.
There is a mighty little piano playing that sounds good to the neighbors.

If you expect to get rich, you must make money when times are dull.
A man who has six or seven friends in a town of this size is doing well.

No woman ever admired a man after seeing him asleep with his mouth open.
Because you don't hear of it, don't imagine you are not being talked about.

It seldom pleases a man to be told of the goodness or greatness of another.
Most bald men have beautiful curly hair on their breast where it is never seen.

The devil is mighty mean, but he punishes others if they do not behave themselves.
We would as soon pass a funeral procession on the street as a woman in mourning.

There never was an ugly man who did not excuse himself by thinking he was smart.
A dog frequently worries a cat, but a man, who is nobler than a dog, worries himself.

Because your neighbors say nothing don't imagine that everything you do pleases them.
When we are traveling, the nearer we approach to a large town, the smaller we feel.

"I never knew a man so mean that I was not willing he should admire me."—Parson Twine.
One of the first things a man notices in a strange town is what funny names the people have.

If a man is treated well in a small town, he soon imagines he could do better in a larger place.
It is a greater temptation to sell beer at a dollar a bottle than it is to sell beer at ten cents a bottle.

The only thing we can recommend is to endeavor to make an uninteresting life interesting as possible.
After a man reaches seventy, living must be a good deal like waiting to go to a dentist to have a tooth pulled.

A husband's and wife's opinions differ so much when the subject of a little spending money is discussed.
The church will not hold all who want to see a wedding, but you bet there are seats to spare at every funeral.

"A miss is as good as a mile," said the deer as it ran away. "A miss is as bad as a mile," said the hunter as he reloaded his gun.

Mules are becoming so scarce and high that finally the newspapers will print an announcement of the fact when a mule colt is born.

When a red-headed woman passes along the street, and she hears people say, "Where's the white horse?" how mad it must make her.

Every time a man gives a picnic, his pleasure is spoiled by the reflection that he would have had better weather had he held it last week.

If Hard Work manages to save a hundred dollars, Lazy Easy will say the amount was a thousand dollars, and that it must have been stolen.

We are compelled to do a great deal of hard marching, but the victorious soldier has an easier time of it than the soldier smarting from defeat.

After all, most of us have pretty contented dispositions, or else there would be how often we see our own faces in the glass.

When we remember that the world is so full of real troubles, it is remarkable that people worry so much over imaginary ones. After you have provided a fire in winter, do not go out and hunt cold weather.

In the Planting Season.
S. F. Hood, of the department of agriculture, at a dinner where he was the guest of honor, told a seasonable agricultural story, a story that should appear to all suburbanites.

"One beautiful spring morning," he began, "a suburbanite looked suspiciously over his edge and said to his neighbor:
"Hey, what the deuce are you buying in that hole there?" The neighbor laughed a harsh, bitter laugh.

"Oh," he said, "I'm just replanting some of my nasturtium seeds, that's all."
"Nasturtium seeds?" shouted the first man, angrily. "It looks more like one of my butt Leghorn hens."
"Oh, that's all right," the other retorted, "the seeds are inside."—New York Tribune.

Never can tell when you'll mash a finger or suffer a cut, bruise, burn or scald. Be prepared. Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil instantly relieves the pain—quickly cures the wound.

The World of Autumn.

A crimson weed and cobalt seed, a burr and a thistle pod, A poppy bloom and the yellow dust in the plume of the golden rod; A beautiful world to live in,
Forget in and forgive in,
To walk in and to work-in, to rest in and to nod.

A chesnut burr and a chinkapin, a haw with its berries black; A paw-paw sweet, a bin of wheat, the straw in the barnyard stack; A bountiful world to grow in,
To reap in and to sow in,
With joy in the blood bubble from the lips of youth blown back!

The windfalls under the winesap, a barrel by the elder mill, A red corn ear in the husk somewhere and a maid with her heart athrill, A fine old world to spark in,
To sing in and to lark in,
To find the old-time sweethearts the same old sweethearts still!

A fox in the den by the berm bank, a horn on the hills of light, A minstrel in the mansion, with the hunters home in the night; A glorious world to dance in,
To live life's old romance in,
To court in and to sport in, when the eyes of the maids burn bright!

A tournament and a queen to crown, and the rosy maids of honor, A heart's delight for the lucky wight who lays the crown upon her; A valorous world to fight in,
To set the old wrongs right in,
To dream of bliss when she gives a kiss to the daring lance that won her!

A mallow pink and a mallow white, a reed by the singing stream, A woot of haze that the warm noon lays on the lance of the golden gleam;
A very sweet world to bask in,
To do one's daily task in,
To browse in and to drowse in, to sleep in and to dream.

—Baltimore Sun.

A Wise Move.

There is an organization known as the United Parlor of the Native Sons of the Golden West. Its members are exclusively Chinese born in this state.
And to their credit be it said that they are trying to do and probably will do effectively, what the state and federal government have utterly failed to accomplish, namely, destroy the slave trade among the Chinese. This they will do, by means of a secret service all over the coast.
The organization has also adopted resolutions to destroy the tongs, thus doing away with the tong wars and many of the things which among Chinese are abhorrent to the white people. May they be successful.

His Class.

The head of a large mercantile house received not long ago a letter from a millionaire banker in the west, asking that the latter's son be placed in some business house where he could learn "things from the bottom up." The writer explained that his offspring was no good at home.
Soon after, according to Harper's Weekly, the western millionaire received the following reply from his New York friend:
"Dear Blank—Your hopeful has arrived. I have given him employment in my establishment at $5 a week, with others of his class. One of these young men has just bought a $50,000 yacht, and another comes to the office in a $9000 motor car. No doubt your son will find his surroundings congenial."

DANGER IN DELAY.

Kidney Diseases Are Too Dangerous for Jackson People to Neglect.
The great danger of kidney troubles is that they get a firm hold before the sufferer recognizes them. Health is gradually undermined. Backache, headache, nervousness, lameness, soreness, lumbago, urinary troubles, dropsy, diabetes and Bright's disease follow in merciless succession. Don't neglect your kidneys. Cure the kidneys with the certain and safe remedy, Doan's Kidney Pills.
Oltis E. Stevens, living at 528 Fair Oaks Ave., Stockton, Cal., says: "I have been troubled for two or three years from kidney complaint and a dull heavy pain across the small of my back. My kidneys did not perform their functions properly, the secretions being unnatural and the passages too frequent, greatly disturbing my rest at night. I used many remedies but did not succeed in finding relief until I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills and procured a box. They gave me such relief in a short time that I continued their use and received a cure. I was seventy-four years old at the time this cure took place and I think this is even more reason that I should consider Doan's Kidney Pills a marvelous remedy."

The Kiss.

The purest kiss
In the world is this:
The kiss that a mother lays On her child's fresh lips
As he blithely trips
To meet the world and its ways.

The sweetest kiss
In the world is this:
The first long kiss of love;
When time is not,
And earth's forgot,
And Eden drops from above.

The saddest kiss
In the world is this:
The kiss on unanswering clay, When dead lips tell
We must not farewell Till the dawn of the judgment day.

A miner named Charles Angove died at the county hospital in San Andreas place from the Goldfield mining dis-was taken with a severe hemorrhage, and on the same day was taken to the county hospital, at which institution he died eight days afterward. Deceased was a victim of what is known as miner's consumption. The funeral services were held at Mokelumne Hill Tuesday under the auspices of Mokel-which lodge Mr Angove was a member.

Deceased was a native of Cornwall,

The state prison directors met at San Quentin yesterday and discussed the case of William Evans, the convict who claims that he was railroad-ed to the prison in 1894 by men who desired to win the reward offered for the capture and conviction of the perpetrator of the murder of Mike Tovey committed in Amador county.
Evans is imprisoned under a life sentence. Affidavits, including the deathbed confession of one of the prosecutors of Evans, were presented as proof of his innocence. Many of the directors believe that Evans was imprisoned unjustly and practically robbed of 13 years of his life, and are of the opinion that everything possible should be done by the state in the nature of a reparation. Action on the matter was not taken yesterday, however, as the directors said that they desired proof of the absolute validity of the affidavits. The judge who pronounced the sentence on Evans now declares that he is innocent, and this declaration, combined with the affidavits, weighs heavily with the directors.—Call,

Harold Crothers aged 16 years, a hazing and would-be joke which was played on him on the 7th inst. He is an apprentice in a plumbing establishment in that city, and the other employees with the intention of "inflicting" him, fastened him to a tur-nilling machine, which was set in motion. The boy's frantic struggles to escape while his clothing was slowly being drawn between the metal rollers, affected his spine and caused internal injuries which may cause his death.—Independent.

Beware of Catarrh that contains Mercury as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on pre-the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufac-

Compared With Other Counties.

We publish in another column a statement compiled in the state controller's office, showing the tax rate in the respective counties for the year 1907. The figures give only the total levy for county purposes, and do not include the levy for state purposes. These statistics are always an interesting study. The people of each county want to know how their governmental expenses compare with their sister counties. Do we manage to get along in the housekeeping business as economically as our neighbors? Does it take more or less per capita tax to maintain our local establishment than other communities that are similarly situated. A critical examination of the list awakens surprise in several respects. The lowest rate, for instance, is in Sacramento county, which carries off the banner with a levy $1.015: Contra Costa, Marin and Yolo come next, with $1.105. The heaviest rate is in Mono county, with $2.555 just $1 more than Amador county. Next comes Madera with $2.355, and Yuba with $2.255. There are fourteen counties, out of a total of 57 in the state, with a higher tax rate than Amador. These are Alpine, Butte, Lake, Madera, Mariposa, Mono, San Diego, Santa Cruz, Shasta, Sierra, Solano, Trinity, Ventura and Yuba. There are six counties having the same rate as Amador, namely, Inyo, El Dorado, Plumas, San Benito, Santa Barbara, and Tulare. This leaves 35 counties with a less rate than Amador.

The difference in the table published elsewhere between the inside and outside rates, shows the amount levied in the respective counties for road purposes. A few of the counties have no incorporated towns, and in these of course the inside and outside figures are the same, and hence the amount levied for road purposes is not revealed. There are only seven counties in this list. Owing to the severe storms of last winter, involving the wreck of bridges and the tearing up of the roadbeds far beyond the ordinary, the road taxes throughout the state were expected to be abnormally high. And this expectation is fulfilled probably beyond all precedent. Sacramento county enjoys the distinction of getting along with the lowest road tax, 30 cent. Kern comes next, with 25 cents. Only 16 counties missed the opportunity of putting the road tax below the limit of 40 cents. Twenty-one counties reached the limit. Eleven exceeded the limit. These are Amador, Lake, Los Angeles, Merced, Riverside, San Bernardino, San Diego, San Mateo, Tulare, Tuolumne and Sierra. Of these high graders, in only two instances is the Amador rate of 52 cents eclipsed. These counties are Los Angeles and San Diego, with 60 cents each. It would be absurd to compare the conditions in these two counties with Amador. Los Angeles is full of incorporated cities, and is notable for the excellent character of her roads. She takes a pride in keeping her highway up to a high state of efficiency; more so probably than any other county in the state. They have something substantial to show for the heavy outlay. Her mileage is far greater than that of our own county, and the cost of maintenance falls exclusively on the county districts. It is not to be wondered at, therefore, that her managers boost the tax rate up to absolute limit—with 40 cents for regular levy, and a special of 20 cents for main thoroughfares. San Diego has a vast territory to cover, and the tax falls on sparsely settled districts. All things considered, Amador is entitled to the palm for the heaviest road taxes. If to this could be added the best kept highways, it would be some consolation. But we must draw the line on that proposition. The inference does not hold good by a long shot.

San Francisco Politics.

City politics in San Francisco were never so mixed up as at present, in regards to the pending election for municipal officers. Party lines are swept away, and it is more of a contest between rival factions than anything else. Each faction is trying to impress upon the voters that the salvation of the city depends upon the election of its ticket. There are three tickets in the field. First, the so-called good government combination, which represents the graft prosecution, headed by Mayor Taylor—the graft prosecution's mayor—for re-election. Taylor is a democrat in politics; but he is supported by both the Call and Chronicle—republican papers. Then there is the straight out republican ticket, headed by Ryan for mayor. This represents the reform movement in the republican ranks. Ryan is a bustling, bustling young fellow, able, ambitious and honest. He is making a rousing canvass, and claims that if elected he will give the city a clean administration uncontrolled by either graft or anti-graft forces. In his support is arrayed the Examiner—the democratic organ, which has taken up his fight in downright earnest. The third ticket is that of the labor union element, with

For the Children

To succeed these days you must have plenty of grit, courage, strength. How is it with the children? Are they thin, pale, delicate? Do not forget Ayer's Sarsaparilla. You know it makes the blood pure and rich, and builds up the general health in every way.

The children cannot possibly have good health unless the bowels are in proper condition. Correct any constipation by giving small laxative doses of Ayer's Pills. All vegetable, sugar-coated.

McCarthy. This appeals to the labor organizations, contending that the union movement is in issue. They believe that with a united front at the polls they can elect their ticket, and hold on to the city patronage. But a large proportion of union men are opposed to mixing up in politics, and will refuse to vote the ticket. It is conceded by the business and financial interests generally, that the success of the labor party would be a calamity to San Francisco—a serious set-back to the rebuilding of the stricken city. The contest seems to be narrowed down between Ryan and Taylor, and the outcome depends largely upon which candidate secures the support of the disaffected union labor vote.

The Indian Reservation.

Geo. O. Grist, who has charge of the Indian reservation about three miles northeast of here, says he has 14 Indians on the reservation all told. This includes children, as well as the aged and infirm. There are a score or more scattered through the county, who would be pleased to find a home on the reservation if they were provided with means of support. Most of these left the home which the United States in its bounty made for them, because they were left without support. They concluded if they had to depend upon charity of neighbors for maintenance they could do better in other sections, because the settlers in vicinity of the reserve are and have been for years, pestered almost beyond endurance with the beggars of the Digger tribe. However, we are pleased to state that the lot of those remaining is improved to what it used to be. They have cultivated a nice garden and raise considerable of what they need in the way of food stuff. The government has made no better provision for maintenance than in years past. In fact there is practically no appropriation for rations, so the wards of the nation must shift for themselves—hunt their own living. This is all right for the vigorous among them, but for the aged and infirm it jars sadly with the obligations of the nation toward those in whose interest they have moved by ostensibly setting aside a home where they are supposed to be taken care of, in a manner befitting a generous government.

SHENANDOAH VALLEY.

Oct 22—Miss Idele Whitehead left for her home in Amador City last Saturday morning, leaving thence for Sacramento to attend the teacher's institute.

Mrs. Myrtle Crain of Tuolumne county is the guest of her mother-in-law Mrs. Susan Crain in the valley. Mrs. Jennie Crain of Plymouth was also a visitor at the Crain ranch for a short while this week.

Mrs. Charles Lorentz of Slate Creek and her two small sons were the guest of her uncle, O. Ball, on Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. Harvey Jameson, with her infant daughter, and her sister, Miss Laura Ball, went to Sacramento Monday, for a few days visit.

Mrs. Davis and son, Rob, returned Sunday evening after a few days visit. Rob is still gaining in health though very slowly. T. D. Davis of Plymouth accompanied them home, but returned to town the same night and is spending the week at the institute.

A faint attempt at a rain last week resulted in several hours of drizzle which laid the dust for nearly as many hours the next day. A good many of our people have since been making a noise like severe colds. Mrs. C. H. Currier left for Sacramento on Monday for a short visit. J. S. Davis, of Amador city was a visitor in the valley on Sunday. The schoolhouse is being painted inside during the week's vacation. Shan.

Our public schoolteacher, Miss Watrous left for Sacramento Saturday morning to attend institute.

Al. Berry and family came down from the mountains on Friday. There is only one item of any interest this week according to Mr. Fessels point of view, and that is the arrival of a 9 lb boy in their home on the 21st, mother and child doing nicely.

Dr. McCrary, presiding elder, held quarterly conference in Pine Grove on Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. McGee have returned from a brief visit to the city.

In the descent, one of the horses made a lunge, and pulled the reins out of the driver's hands and the team started off at such a gait that both occupants concluded to jump off rather than stay with the wagon in its unguided flight. They both escaped unhurt. One of the wheelers got tangled up in the harness some what, and one horse ran into the brush, and was considerably bruised up. Otherwise, little damage resulted from the mishap.

A slight rain fell Tuesday evening, sufficient to lay the dust for a brief time. It measured only 8 hundredths of an inch, making a total of 24 of an inch for the season, or since July 1. There is no ground so far for the prediction of a dry winter. Last year up to the 8th of December only 2.63 inches had fallen, and the prospects were busy anticipating a rainfall below the average. Instead of that it was the severest winter known in the keeping of a record, the precipitation reaching 42.78 inches.

Mrs Koper Seriously Hurt.

About seven o'clock Wednesday evening a double carriage containing four grown people, two men and two women, and two children was upset at Kennedy Flat through careless driving, and injured all the occupants more or less. The most seriously injured was Mrs. John Koper, who fell directly on her head causing concussion of the brain. She has been in a semi-conscious condition since, though at present she is thought to be out of danger.

The parties were returning from Sutter Creek, and just as they started down the hill at Kennedy Flat, decided to turn around and go back for something. The road is rather narrow there, so the carriage went over the end of the culvert that crosses the road at this point, spilling all of them out. The horses became frightened and started toward Sutter, but turned down the lone road at Martells. John Kose, who happened to be there when they passed, jumped on his horse and caught them a short distance down the road. The vehicle was not very badly damaged.

Wedding Bells in Sutter Creek.

One of the most interesting events in the society of Sutter Creek, was the marriage of Miss Eva the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Fraser to Chas. E. Adams a prominent business man of Redding.

Promptly at five o'clock p. m. the young couple took their places beneath a beautiful bell of ferns and evergreens artistically arranged throughout the spacious parlors. The charming bride was beautifully dressed in a gown of melrose silk, and carried a bouquet of lilies. The groom was dressed in the conventional black suit. Rev. C. Todd Clark, of the First Methodist Episcopal Church, South, of Sacramento spoke the impressive words that made them man and wife.

Immediately after the ceremony all repaired to the dining room to partake of a sumptuous wedding dinner. Scarcely had the guest retired from the dining room when the Ladies of the Maccabees in a body took possession of the Fraser home to wish the young couple a happy journey and to bid Miss Fraser farewell, as she had been a very prominent member of the order.

After a brief honeymoon in the City Mr. and Mrs. Adams will make their home in Redding.—Record.

To Leave Central Eureka.

Elisha Hampton at present superintendent of the Central Eureka mine will leave here Wednesday for Goldfield to accept the position of general superintendent of the Goldfield Consolidated Mining Company, which company is controlled by the Nixon-Wingfield interest. It was only last week that he had any intimation that he was being considered for the place. At that time he received a letter from the company offering him the place and asking him to get there as soon as convenient. W. R. Thomas, who ran the Central far so long a time, will relieve Mr. Hampton as a favor to him until the company can get another.

Mr. Hampton is a man deserving of the best in the mining field. Since a boy he has been working in the mines and by close application and study, has fitted himself to accept one of the best jobs in the country in the mining business. The people of Amador county know him first as superintendent of the Onieda, which place he held for about five years up to the time it closed a short while ago. After the suspending of operation there he took the place of John Thomas at the Central Eureka. In Nevada he will have charge of operations at the five mines comprising the Goldfield Con.

If Mr. Hampton finds that the schools there are good his family will join him as soon as he finds a place. Otherwise they will stay here and the boy will finish his course at the high school at Ione.

Giant Powder Cap Exploded.

Last Thursday while fooling with a giant cap, the three old son of John Borenovich had all one finger of his right hand blown off. Small pieces of the copper were taken from his arm and face, one piece penetrating his lower lip, while still another entered the eye, though it is probably not serious. Dr. Phillips was called over from Jackson and reports that the boy is doing very nicely now. It seems that a much older boy had the little fellow hold the cap while he hammered it to make it explode.

Narrow Escape.

W. C. Hoss of Pioneer, and the schoolmarm of that district, met with an exciting experience last Saturday morning. The schoolteacher, Dr. Allice Bradley, wished to go by the morning train for Sacramento, and Mr. Hoss undertook the task of conveying her with his team to Martell's in time to catch the train, which leaves about 8 o'clock. As the distance from Hoss' place to Martell's is fully twenty miles, they had to start about three o'clock, and make the greater part of the journey in darkness. At a point on the road above Aqueduct, Miss Bradley noticed that the mules were leaving the road, and that the wagon was on the point of going over the bank. She jumped off on the lower side, landing safely. Mr. Hoss was not so fortunate. He was struck on the head as the wagon capsized and remained unconscious for five minutes. The school teacher was equal to the emergency, she never lost her presence of mind. At once she caught hold of the mules and thereby prevented a runaway. Mr. Hoss was only stunned for a brief space, and when he recovered the two managed to get the wagon on its feet again, and continued the trip, making the depot in time to catch the train.

MINING NOTES.

Kennedy—Sinking operations have been started at this mine. The lowest level at present is 2100 feet, with 70 feet of stump. The shaft will be sunk from 150 to 200 feet deeper, and another level opened up. This mine is the pioneer in the industry of deep quartz mining in this county. It is making history in this respect. It is blazing the way for other properties. There is no past experience to serve as guide posts in this work of discovery, other than that furnished by the operations of this wonderful mine. Encouraged by the fine ore bodies developed in the lower levels, the delving underground will naturally be continued so long as it holds out, as it does at present, the promise of a liberal surrender of precious metal.

Argonaut—The monthly dividend of this wonderful mine was reduced at the meeting of the directors held this week from 10 cent to 5 cents per share. The mine has paid 66 dividends, including the one declared this month. Nearly all were at the rate of 10 cents per share. As there are 200,000 shares, this means a monthly distribution to the stockholders of $20,000. During the period of activity since the litigation with the Kennedy Company was finally decided, the amount distributed in dividends has been over half a million dollars. While the output of the mill has been materially reduced of late owing to the ore in the lower levels being of poorer grade, the stockholders are very sanguine that the old time quality of rock will be encountered again. In every bonanza mine along the mother lode the same variations in ore values have been encountered. The company has been laying in large quantities of supplies for winter, installing additional machinery, in the shape of another air compressor and blower for ventilation. Sinking operations will be resumed.

At the meeting of the directors of the Gwin mine just held in San Francisco an assessment of fifteen cents a share was levied.

From San Francisco for Treatment.

Antone Isola, an uncle of Isola, prominent member of the police force in San Francisco, came up from that city last Tuesday for treatment in the Sierra Sanitarium, at Martells. He has been suffering for a long time from a disease of the foot, which has resisted all efforts to cure. We believe this is the first patient to come from the metropolis to the local sanitarium for treatment. The salubrious climate and delightful scenery must eventually bring many of the afflicted from all parts of the state to seek change and relief in this genial air.

A postal card has been received from A. Waltenspiel, whose letters have from England and other points have interested the readers of the Ledger for several weeks, stating that he was on the eve of departing for Paris, and that his next communication would be from Heidelberg, Germany. At the time of writing the and Mrs. Waltenspiel were "doing London," and the writer would not attempt to write up that "little village."

How Frank Gallagher Was Killed.

Frank M. Gallagher, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Gallagher of San Andreas, was instantly killed by a fall from a wagon near Vallecito last Tuesday evening. Mr. Gallagher had been at work for the Union Construction Company, above Vallecito, for several months and had resigned his position and was on his way to San Andreas on a visit when the accident occurred. He was riding on one of the wagons of the company when a wheel struck an obstruction in the road and he was thrown off. His head struck on a rock, and death was almost instantaneous.

The body was prepared for burial by Jos. R. Prince, the Altaville undertaker, and brought to San Andreas for interment. The funeral took place from the residence of his parents, thence to the Catholic church, on Friday morning at 10 o'clock and the interment took place at the Catholic cemetery. The funeral was largely attended by relatives and friends of the deceased.

Frank Gallagher was born and grew to manhood in San Andreas and was well liked by every one. He was industrious and saving and always had the welfare of his aged parents uppermost in his mind. His untimely death is much regretted, and the sympathy of all is extended to the bereaved parents, sisters and brothers.

—Citizen

To Become Citizens.

Only two persons made declaration of intention to become citizens during the present month. These are: Luigi Casazza, native of Italy, miner, and now living in Jackson. He landed in this country in New York, in December, 1896.

James Jory, by occupation a land-dryman, living in Sutter Creek, a native of England; arrived in New York, October 15, 1900.

Big Yield.

W. C. Hoss brought down this week a sack of potatoes, containing 14 pounds, all gathered from one hill, produced on his ranch in the mountains. The potatoes are of the finest quality, and are preferred to those grown in any other section. The incident is mentioned to show the possibilities of our mountain lands in the cultivation of this vegetable. And yet, strange to say, the industry remains almost totally neglected.
